

Kipp Cooper

Kipp Cooper is the Chief Executive Officer of the Kansas City Regional Association of REALTORS® and the Heartland Multiple Listing Service, with over 11,000 members and subscribers in both Kansas and Missouri. Prior to joining KCRAR and Heartland MLS, Kipp served as the Chief Executive Officer for the Huntsville Area Association of REALTORS® and the North Alabama Multiple Listing Service. Under Kipp's leadership, NALMLS received national recognition for its MLS Direct Syndication model, placing brokers and agents back in control of their internet listings and leads. Kipp is a recognized leader in the real estate industry and has been named a Forty under 40 business leader in both New Hampshire and Nevada for his work with REALTOR® Associations. He has been recognized as one of the most powerful and influential people in residential real estate in 2015 and a person to watch for 2019 in the Swanepoel Power 200 report.

Before becoming a CEO, Kipp served as the Director of Government Affairs in both Las Vegas Nevada and the New Hampshire Associations of REALTORS®. In his home state of New Hampshire, he also served with distinction as a City Councilman and as a state legislator in the New Hampshire House of Representatives.

Kipp earned his Bachelor of Science degree in Political Communications from Emerson College and holds the National Association of REALTORS® Designation of Realtor Certified Executive.