The new federal evictions moratorium expires on October 3, 2021. Housing providers should keep in mind that some state and local governments may still have their own eviction moratoria in place that may still be in effect.

NAR has always maintained that the best solution for all parties was rental assistance to cover the rent, taxes, and utility bills for tenants struggling during the pandemic. This prevents two crises—one for tenants, and one for mom-and-pop housing providers who do not have a reprieve from their bills.

NAR is currently assessing the new order and its impact on small housing providers. Given the pending litigation brought by the Alabama and Georgia Association REALTORS® and supported by NAR, all legal avenues are still being assessed as we review the details of the new order. As this is a new order, the Supreme Court will not consider action until relief at the lower courts has been sought and exhausted.

NAR will continue to push the Administration and Congress to work with us in throwing our full efforts behind the deployment of rental assistance nationwide, covering up to a year-and-a-half of back and future payments for renters across the country who are struggling to gain access to those funds.
